create with your whole soul, leaving a piece of yourself in your effort

To do something with soul, creativity or love... to put something of yourself into your work... Meraki is a word used to describe what happens when you leave a piece of yourself in your work.

When you work with color and pattern, your imprint is one that mixes radiance with subtlety, bold strokes with gentle whispers. The tapestry that is life is reflected in the eclectic play of floral prints, slashes of color, concentric triangles and tonal prints. Use Meraki to create something with a part of yourself.
